Helping You Identify and Mitigate Risk

Partnering with us to help identify and mitigate risks makes good business sense. Our straightforward approach to risk control can help you reduce the total cost of risk and improve your bottom line. We start by helping analyze and assess existing and potential safety issues in your workplace. We help you identify root causes of risk, while exploring its likelihood, frequency, and severity. Risk control is a great deal more than a "fix." We work with you to address your most pressing issues, and follow up with a flexible array of consulting services, research-based resources, and integrated solutions.

Easy-to-Access Risk Control Expertise

Sometimes, simply identifying an exposure can help mitigate a risk. At other times, you may need specialized expertise to help guide you through risk-reduction. That's why we're here for you — online, on the phone, or on-site.

 Online	Liberty Mutual SafetyNet™ offers self-service access to the latest safety research, self-assessment tools, safety toolkits, OSHA related materials, and training resources. You can also sign up for dozens of instructor-led webinars.
 On the phone	Our responsive Risk Control Consulting Center can analyze safety-related problems and potential risks remotely by evaluating photos or video in order to grasp the issues and offer practical solutions and resources over the phone.
 On-site	We offer on-site assessments in order to develop a dedicated service plan to help you address your general liability, workers compensation, auto, and property risks. Liberty Mutual also maintains an international network of providers that can assist your risk control efforts abroad. Finally, we conduct local and regional risk control classroom sessions and workshops to help you understand areas of risk and learn how to implement cost-effective solutions.
